

LALLA ROOKH MUSEUM

A fascinating historical journey for all!

In 1873 the ship Lalla Rookh arrived in Suriname with the first group of indentured laborers from British India (modern day India). They came to work on the plantations, replacing the slaves who were freed in 1863. Although officially called indentured labor, in reality it simply represented a new form of slavery. Today, the descendants form a large and successful community. Their unique identity is a valuable part of the cultural diversity of Suriname. Would you like to know more? Visit the Lalla Rookh Museum.

Opening hours:

Monday, June 18th: 11.00 – 14.00

Every Friday: 18.00 - 20.00

Free entry

Address: Lalla Rookhweg 54, Lalla Rookh Complex, Building 2, Paramaribo, Suriname

Information: T: +597 531267 / +597 463080 / E: nshi@sr.net

www.lallarookh.org

Facebook Lalla Rookh Suriname